ROLE CLARITY

One client. Two lenses. One aligned plan.

Account Management owns the relationship and client narrative. Program Management owns the operational path to delivery.

A ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT

CLIENT LENS

- Understands the client problem, outcomes and priorities
- Frames and validates demand with the client
- Owns expectations, approvals and client-facing communication
- Carries feedback, relationship context and annual priorities

OUTPUT Validated and prioritized demand

SHARED SPACE

Plan together early

Align on outcomes, options, risks and the right people to involve.

P PROGRAM MANAGEMENT

DELIVERY LENS

- Tests feasibility, capacity, timing, dependencies and risk
- Builds the integrated program plan across projects and teams
- Connects Product decisions to Production with enough context
- Coordinates tradeoffs, changes, readiness and improvement

OUTPUT Feasible and integrated delivery plan

COMMITMENT GUARDRAIL

Targets can be discussed early. Commitments become firm only after client intent and delivery feasibility are aligned.

CLIENT INTENT + DELIVERY REALITY = CLEAR COMMITMENT

Account does not independently commit dates, estimates, resources, methods or budget assumptions. Program does not independently reprioritize demand, change outcomes or make relationship-sensitive commitments.
